Oliver is a young architect, communication enthusiast, poet, musician, author, investor and Christian from Kenya. He has a passion for creative work with a natural talent for expressive writing. He has written, performed and trained poetry and spoken word from a tender age of 13 at the Kenya music festivals, high school drama and other forums. He has a rich collection of over 100 English and Swahili poems and has submitted some to international poetry prizes such as Sillerman First Book Prize for African Poets among others. His inspiration for the poems originate from daily natural life lessons and experiences.
