

Lost in my earthly journey, I find myself in a space free of the bondage of time. In this dark space, I begin to hear a voice of what seemed to be my guide. The voice knew everything about me, so I named it, my old self; a version of me that had been stifled, in the process of being packaged to be fit for earthly experience. In this moment, I begin to listen, for the first time, to a stranger. The only guide through this unfamiliar territory.

About the author

Stephen Omondi is a Kenyan-born writer. He has written various poems, but this is his first published work. He also writes for the blog www.going-back-to-the-future.com.

ISBN 978-9914-35-432-4

9 789914 354324

VOICES OF MY OLD SELF

STEPHEN OMONDI

STEPHEN OMONDI

VOICES OF MY OLD SELF